The Educating in Christ

How to Form a Child for Yearning, Not Just

Have you ever wondered how to best support your children on their journey of life and faith, especially in these immensely challenging times?

How can we help our young ones not only to learn about God's truth in their heads, but also come to Come join us!

The method of formation in this semester-length course is uniquely physical – discover an approach to how faith can be effectively passed on to children according to their developmental stages — in a home setting. This Educating in Christ (EIC) approach is a unique adaptation of the work of Dr. Maria Montessori, Dr. Sofia Cavalletti, and Gianna Gobbi. Designed by an educational expert, Dr. Gerard O'Shea, in collaboration with a team of catechetical experts assembled by Franciscan University's Catechetical Institute, EIC offers an unparalleled understanding of the child. The EIC goal is to enable mothers and fathers to understand how to foster each child's capacity for God at every stage, from infancy to the end of the teenage years. Come find the clarity that you've always desired as a parent!
